Accurate assessment tools, also addressing specific learning needs and meet real world language requirements, can help students achieve their long-term goals.

90% of teachers believe that a global framework for English is needed to raise teaching standards (according to the report, “On raising English standards with a Single Global Framework”).

Teacher training and development impact student outcomes directly.

Technology is a great ally - it can reach more people with a high quality, accessible and affordable education.

Find out more about the four recommendations to address English Language Learning challenges in Latin America on the report led by the Inter-American Dialogue (www.thedialogue.org) and supported by Pearson (www.pearson.com), at: www.thedialogue.org/resources/english-language-learning-in-latin-america/